VOL. 52. No. 15

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

STEERING COMMITTEE MEETS.

The initial meeting of Prof. Barry's appointees as a steering committee to conduct the campaign for incorporation convened in the district courtroom at seven o'clock Tuesday evening and canvassed plans for launching the campaign.

Mr. Barry presided and Judge H. E. Haass produced several maps of the townsite, together with several documents, including the petition and also the order of the election held in October 1930. After a canvass of these by Messrs. F. X. Vance and Felix Batot, the other committee-men present, it was tentatively agreed to follow practically the same lines as proposed for the city limits in 1930, except that from the F. A. Heyen corner in the south part of town just going to the east and west road and following it to the Yancey road, it was proposed to go 300 feet south of the same and paralleling it to the Yancey road, thus taking into the corporate limits all those houses fronting north on the road. Following north up the Yancey road, the proposed line stops some distance short of the old one and turns east just south of the Gas Company's office. After passing just east of Dr. Smith's residence, the line turns north to the railroad, crossing the right of way to the north of the track. Here it turns west, following the track west quite some distance before turning north again. After zigzagging first in a northwesterly direction, touching the Henry Buss place at the crossroads as its most northern point, it follows an irregular course southwesterly to a point near the slough bridge just east of Mrs. Robt. Reitzer's. From there it proceeds in a generally southeasterly direction to 300 feet south of the F. A. Heyen corner. The area includes some 1200 or 1300 acres of land, including some more than the original townsite and all of its subsequent additions. Of course, this was only tentative and may be changed somewhat in drawing the townsite, which task of drawing the map is the initial step and will be done voluntarily by Judge Haass.

To Mr. Vance was delegated the job of drawing up the petition for the election, which, among other things, must set forth the metes and bounds as platted of the proposed corporation.

Some discussion was had as to the form of city government, whether commission or mayorality, should be petitioned for, but the matter was left more or less tentative pending further consideration.

The matter of nominating a slate of candidates for filling the city offices was barely mentioned and seemingly dismissed to await action at another election, if and when the people vote incorporation.

The committee adjourned subject to call.

The Managing Editor of this paper accepted, as a courtesy to the press, an invitation to sit in with the committee and, being consulted on several points, took advantage of the opportunity to re-iterate his oft-repeated plea that when Hondo incorporates it should be primarily and specifically for establishing and maintaining a municipally owned water and sewer system.

He tried to make his triple relationship to the matter clear. First, that as a voter he shall vote against any effort at this time to incorporate Hondo unless an adequate sewer system is made specifically the paramount objective and is backed up by a slate of dependable men as candidates for city office pledged to achieve that objective first. Second, as a publisher the columns of his paper are open free of charge to any reasonable use by any one to discuss the matter from any standpoint—and such discussion by the people is not only welcomed but earnestly urged. And third, as an editor he shall AS ARBITER—should that become necessary between debaters in his columns—be, as in everything else he tries to be, as fair as is humanly possible, endeavoring to keep the peace, tranquility and general welfare of the community uppermost in mind, but as A COMMENTATOR to discuss it as and when the time and the occasion seem to warrant.

In this connection, we wish to thank the committee for its courtesy and kind gesture toward a friendly understanding and congratulate it on the commendable contrast with the effort on a previous occasion of anonymous parties working under the name of the "Chamber of Commerce" to "slip one over" on the eve of an election.

We hope the campaign may be so conducted that no matter what the verdict of the majority may be, all both winner and loser, can feel that that verdict has been fairly and intelligently arrived at.

HELPING THE MOUNTAIN CLIMBER

QUIHI NOTES.

And Isaac went unto Abimelech king of the Philistines unto Gerar. Gen. 26: 1.

How did Isaac face his famine, was our parting question. The text today says, By emigration. That's one way out and hundreds of thousands have gone that way to escape the dreary calamity. We know a section in a northern state where people have moved out three times—and returned, living there yet. We know of one who lived in fourteen counties of our state in the zest and quest of better conditions. Quite a few have landed in the poor house at the end of their migrations. Well nigh a hundred thousand are said to have left the "dust bowl" section for Idaho, Oregon and Washington. Often a puzzling question, that emigration question. Some leave their homes for mere wanderlust, as soldiers and emigrants of fortune, others for grudges against the home government, nursed for many years, some for greater political liberty or to enjoy religious freedom, so they may live according to the dictates of their own conscience (a fleetly will-o'-the-wisp if that conscience is not orientated and normalized by the word of God). The vast majority leaves for better economic conditions, induced and guided by newspaper smatterings, the glowing prospect of real estate brokers, the urging overdrawn accounts of emigration agencies, and by their own imagination going wild, cluttering every sober thought and nullifying all clear vision. And they cross oceans and mountains and valleys with "the optimism of a boom-town", often to sever their home connections forever, forfeiting their personality, language, religion, tradition and originality in that rude and crude "melting-pot"; many to achieve material prosperity, many more to feel the pangs of homesickness for the balance of their life, not a few we found in psychopathic institutes, nerve-clinics and asylums, and, what seems worse, in times of patriotic explosions and split sentiments, many were relegated to the slums of foreigners, outcasts and social pariahs and humiliated by discrimination, suspicion and acts of violence, though living longer in the country of their adoption, having a better record and being more instrumental in the progress of that country than many of their loud-mouthed and self-assertive compatriots. And yet, despite disappointments, tragic experiences and social persecutions, emigration and immigration is as needful to the system of humanity as circulation of blood is to the body. Empires and democracies are built thereby, centers of popular congestion are relieved, wastes transformed into livable and lovable sections, and the fruition of cultural achievements distributed in wider areas, developing new incentives and ambitions, etc. For Isaac, however, the situation was totally different.

Announcements for October the 24th: German service at New Fountain at 10; Sunday school and Junior Bible class at 9:30; English service at 7 P. M. We plead with you for a rich attendance.

Another large and festive throng of relatives and friends attended the beautiful occasion a while ago (Wednesday), when Miss Eileen Hartman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hartman, was given in holy wedlock to Herbert J. Brucks, the son of Ahlon Mr. and Mrs. Julius Brucks. After the pretty baritone solo, "I Love You Truly", sung by Mr. Frank Boehle, the wedding march from Wagner's Lohengrin was intoned and the bridal procession started with the attendants, Mr. Milton Brucks and Miss Della Hartman, in the lead, followed by little Douglas Bohmfalk, the ring-bearer, the bride couple making up the rear. While the rings were exchanged a Dedicatory Prayer was played by the organist. After the solemnization of the union, the final strains of the wedding march accompanied the exit of the procession. Here the garment specialist would indulge in a minute close-up of the garments worn, we merely add that after a wedding trip to Arizona the new home will be near Quihi, with the good wishes of their many friends following. And we invoke God's mercy and kindness for their future.

MEMBER OF COOGAN BAND VISITS HOMEFOLKS.

Ulrich Burger, who is a member of the Jackie Coogan dance orchestra, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Burger, at Dunlay, while the band has been filling dance engagements in several Texas cities. From a recent issue of The Daily Texan, Texas University paper, we copy the following:

The musical arranger and saxophone player for Jackie Coogan's orchestra, Ulrich Burger, is a former student of the University, having been graduated in the summer of 1934 with a bachelor of arts degree. Burger is a member of Chi Phi fraternity, and was president of the local chapter in 1932.

"Boop" Burger, as he was known to his fraternity brothers, came to school from Dunlay, Texas. After graduation he went to the coast and got a job. Last year he played in the orchestra in Billy Rose's show in Fort Worth.

Ulrich is also a graduate of Hondo High School.

MISS DORIS WINDROW QUEEN.

The Winter Garden Fair's pageant of royalty was presented Thursday night at the huge fair grounds pavilion in Pearsall before a capacity crowd. More than 75 girls and young men participated, crowning Miss Doris Windrow of Hondo as queen of the 1937 Winter Garden Fair. The stage setting was an Aztec theme.

The queen was preceded to her throne by the royal coterie, composed of the duchesses, Miss Billie Merritt and Miss Evelyn Knopp, and their respective escorts, Fred Bader and Edward Finger; the royal princess, Miss Annette Rothe, and the prince, Horace Cox, Jr. The queen was attended by little Misses Anne Reilly and Julia Maizelle Crow as train-bearers, and Master Robert Carle as crown-bearer.

After her Majesty was seated on the throne, members of the out-of-town court were presented and paid homage to her. Duchesses and princesses and their escorts represented Pearsall, Batesville, Big Wells, Carrizo Springs, Charlotte, Cotulla, Devine, Encinal, Hinder, Lytle, Melon, San Antonio, Somerset and Uvalde.

The crown was placed on Miss Windrow's head by Murray Stephenson, whom she chose as her king, and this ceremony was followed by dancing by several young girls of Pearsall and Miss Maggard of San Antonio. Music for the event was furnished by the Ambassadors.

The Queen's Ball completed the evening's festivities.

Miss Windrow wore robes of turquoise velvet. The gown was made with a close-fitting bodice to which the full gored skirt was gathered. The neck-line was V-shaped. Her long court train of turquoise velvet, which fell from the shoulders where it was held in place with an Elizabethan collar, was embellished with a design in gold sequins and embroidered in gold rhinestones. She wore a gold necklace. Her slippers were gold and the royal jeweled crown and scepter in gold and silver rhinestones completed the ensemble.

The royal princess, Miss Annette Rothe, wore a gown of gold velvet, made with a close-fitting bodice and long flaring skirt with a brief train. She wore gold colored slippers and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of Talisman roses.

Miss Evelyn Knopp, royal duchess, wore a Dubonnet velvet costume, made with close-fitting bodice and drop shoulder effect. Her accessories were gold. Miss Billie Merritt, royal duchess, wore coronation blue velvet made on princess lines with long flaring lines. Her accessories were also in gold.

The little train-bearers, Anne Reilly and Julia Maizelle Crow, were gowned alike in long dresses of turquoise blue velvet, made empire style, with full skirts. They wore gold slippers. The crown-bearer, Master Robert Carle, was in full dress.

The escorts to the members of the royal court were attired in tuxedos. The escorts for the out-of-town duchesses and princesses wore white shirts, dark trousers and sashes to match the girls' dresses.

The parade was held Thursday afternoon at 1 P. M., the queen's float being the last in the procession. The royal equipage was decorated in an Aztec motif, the theme of the coronation, and was in colors of blue, yellow, and red, and adorned with totem poles, red pompoms and colored streamers.

Riding with the queen were little Misses Anne Reilly and Julia Maizelle Crow, and Master Robert Carle.

The queen wore a wine-colored moire taffeta dress with gold slippers. She wore a fillet of Talisman roses on her hair. She sat upon an authentic Indian blanket in Aztec colors. The two little girls were costumed alike in white dresses with long full skirts and square neckline embroidered in blue, gold, green and red Indian designs. They wore blue sashes, gold sandals and bandeaus of blue ribbon on their heads. Robert's suit was composed of black satin trousers, white shirt with full sleeves and a wine colored sash. He carried the crown on a wine-colored pillow.

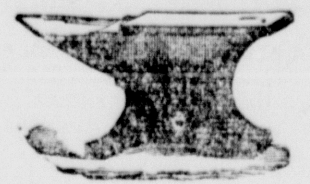

THE WEEK'S CARLOT SHIPMENTS.

Following a visit from four broomcorn buyers to Hondo the last few days, ten cars of straw have been shipped during the past week. Shipment was made to Wichita, Kansas, and the price ranged from sixty to seventy-five dollars per ton. Four cars had been shipped previously and this brought the total up to 14 cars of the new crop that has gone to market.

Incoming shipments received during the week were: Three cars of gasoline, 1 of autos (Chevrolets), 1 of salt, 1 of lumber, 1 of shingles, and one of flour mill products.

THE SUPREME COURT.

By Clayton Rand.

Whatever one's opinion on the issue of whether the Supreme Court is supreme or not there's one phase of the conflict that stirs one's bile—

The hypocrisy of it all—the cowardice of some Congressmen, and the artful-dodgery of others.

Senators with their tongues in their cheeks who give lip support to a measure which they at heart oppose is a pathetic patriotism.

One such Congressman sneaked back home the other day. He acted a lot like a hound dog that's been sucking eggs—you couldn't see him for his guilt.

Whichever side a fellow's on he ought to be there. It's a bad bargain to sell one's birthright for a mess of patronage.

PLAYING IT LOW DOWN IN AUSTIN.

Our readers know that the Legislature is in called session in Austin, considering ways and means to get the state out of the financial hole their own incompetence has gotten it into.

From Nobody's Business, an ably written syndicate article by Julian Capers, Jr., we compile this delectable story of how they are attempting to do the job—at the expense of thousands of dollars to the taxpayers:

Taking the economy bull by the horns, the Texas senate this week defied Gov. Allred in his refusal to permit it to consider reduction of appropriations, and took up consideration of Grady Woodruff's economy bill, which would slice $4,000,000 off departmental appropriations for the next two fiscal years. Much of the reduction would come from reduction of salaries of state employees drawing over $1500 a year, and from abolition of the jobs of the departmental press agents, who have sprung up all over Austin like a crop of broomweeds. There is no authority in law for the employment of press agents to "sell" the departments and the political minded department heads to the legislature and the newspaper readers of the state, but they are carried on the payrolls by subterfuge, as "educational directors", "information directors", and "statistical experts".

The senate by a decisive vote of 20 to 6 overruled Lt. Gov. Walter Woodall, who held that the reduction bill did not come within the governor's call, and permitted introduction of the measure. The vote would indicate the senate will vote decisively to cut the expenditures. Then, if Gov. Allred, whose forces dominate the house, should block it there, or if he should veto it, the senate apparently has the governor in a "spot" where they can place the onus for failure to enact new tax bills squarely upon Allred.

Over on the house side, spectators were treated to a strange sight. Dominated by Allred's ring of youthful brain-trusters—the majority of them kids just out of their teens, some still studying law—a subcommittee of the taxation and revenue committee sat for a continuous 13-hour hearing. They bandied figures running into the billions of dollars about like pennies, defied a large delegation of solid citizens who came to protect higher taxes by granting them a scant 45 minutes in the wee hours of Thursday morning to voice their protest, and came out with a $10,000,000 omnibus tax bill that will hike taxes on the oil industry, sulphur, public utilities, cement, and amusements, including movie admission—from 30 to 50 per cent and more. The bright young minds on the taxation committee—to some of whom the $10 a day they get as legislators represents the maximum earning capacity to date—baited witnesses representing billions of dollars of capital investment in Texas business wisdom and experience, with obvious delight.

With the session half gone, it is becoming increasingly obvious that the Allred program of $15,000,000 of new taxes is sunk without a trace. Whether increased levies amounting to $3,000,000 or $4,000,000 will get through depends largely upon the governor's cooperation with the senate.

Of an affable nature he readily made friends and was staunch in his friendships. He was kind and considerate to his mother and father and his affection for his only brother was especially noticeable.

Generous in his opinions of others, his life short as it was made an imprint on the memory of those who knew him and he was genuinely liked in the community. During his long illness he was patient and kind to the nurses and doctors who administered to him.

Funeral services were conducted at 4:00 P. M. Friday, October 8, at the Pearsall Methodist Church with Rev. J. L. Bryant officiating. Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Preston Nixon, and one brother, William Nixon.

DEVINE NEWSLETS.

From The Devine News.

NEW OIL FIELD FOUND TWENTY MILES WEST.

San Antonio, October 9.—A new oil field for the Balcones Fault zone was seen when Pagenkopf & Jamieson No. 1 Houston Estate, in the northern corner of Frio County, 6,700 feet east of the Frio river, in the Juan Figueroa survey, at 2651 feet in chalk topped at 2592 feet, was finished for a good flowing well, though no gauge was available. Oil is 32.4 gravity. The well is one mile east of No. 1 Blackaller, a failure abandoned a few months ago which however had some indications of production. The new well opens the second flow in Frio County. —Press Item Sunday.

News reached Devine early in the week that a good strike had been made in the Blackaller field, twenty miles west from Devine and about ten miles from Yancey; and it is believed it will lead back this way towards the Chicon Lake field. The flow is guessed at anything from 50 to several hundred barrels. The rig which drilled this well, we understand is the rig unloaded in Devine a few weeks ago, and those who claim to know the location, claim that Devine will profit as an unloading point for that field should it prove to be a big one; and especially if it should work back this way.

MANUEL MURRAY HAS HIS BOND LOWERED.

Prominent citizens of Lytle were here Friday afternoon testifying in an examining trial of Manuel Murray, aged Lytle Mexican, who has been in jail account a shooting at Natalia recently, in which Pancho Gonzales was shot through the breast and Deputy Baker through the hand at a dance two weeks ago. District Attorney R. J. Noonan and County Attorney H. E. Haass, and others from Hondo were present. Murray's bond was reduced from $750 to appear here to $250 to appear before the county grand jury at Hondo, several business men at Lytle signed Murray's bond; others wanted to. If Gonzales, who is still in the hospital, gets well, as now seems sure, the Gonzales family will probably not appear against Murray, and his case may be brought down to an offense of being intoxicated and having a gun.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NEWS ITEMS FROM THE OWL.

UVALDE DOWNS HONDO ON BREAK.

Cashing in on a break in the first minute of play, and successfully throwing back two determined offensive thrusts by the Hondo Owls, the Uvalde High Coyotes won a close 6-0 contest last Friday on their local field.

The Uvalde kick-off skimmed a long the ground until it took a high bounce on the 2 yard line. While Joel Abbott, Owl safety man, spent valuable time chasing it a Coyote covered the ball on the two yard line. Two drives into the line was all that was needed for the score. Windrow blocked the attempted conversion for the extra point.

Upon receiving the ball on the kick-off, Hondo drove to the Coyotes 4 yard marker and there gave the ball up on downs. Again in the third quarter the Owls started to move but Uvalde held on their own eight yard line.

The brunt of the Uvalde offensive was carried by J. R. Jackson, who made several good gains through the Owl line and around the ends. Just before the final gun he returned a punt 42 yards from the 50 to Hondo's Hondo's chances were erased principally by the sluggishness of both their offense and defense.

The Owls play Devine Friday night in Devine.

DEVINE LOOMS BIG IN PATH OF OWLS

The Hondo Owls will invade the stables of the Devine Warhorses Friday night at eight o'clock, in the first district conference game of the season for the Owls. A loss to Devine will practically eliminate the Owls from the district race, as Devine has already defeated the pre-season favorite, Cotulla.

The Owls always had a hard time with Devine, and Friday's game will be no exception. The Warhorses are "hot" now, after stopping the Cotulla Cowboys 7-5 in their first conference game.

Devine is a new member of this district, coming up from class "C" to class "B" football this year. The game will be the first one that Hondo has played under Devine's lights.

The admission price is 15c for students and 50c for adults.

Compare the scores:

Devine 13—Charlotte 0

Hondo 6—Charlotte 0

Cotulla 7—Uvalde 6

Cotulla 6—Devine 7

Hondo 0—Uvalde 6

The purpose of the convention is to discuss all the problems of Home Economics that have arisen during the school year.

P.T.-A. To Sponsor Hallowe'en Carnival

One of the most important matters to come up during the business session of the Hondo Parent-Teacher Association at its regular meeting Monday afternoon was the question of a Hallowe'en carnival. It was voted to sponsor such an affair similar to the carnival presented last year on College Square. The carnival will be held on the school grounds this year. The following working committees were appointed by the president, Mrs. E. G. Pope: Parade, Miss Eddie Connor; Booths, Mrs. Earl Starnes; Grounds, Supt. J. G. Barry; Soliciting Committee, Mrs. Arthur Ney, Mrs. Ben Oefinger, Mrs. Barnitz Carle and Mrs. Felix Hollmig; Decorating, Mrs. O. A. Fly, Mr. M. L. McDowell, Mrs. Amos Harlee and Mrs. H. J. Meyer. The carnival will be held on October 30th.

The grades will have booths. They are as follows:

1. Pet show.
2. Candy and confetti.
3. Grab bag.
4. Orange ade.
5. Cookies.
6. Candy.
7. Fish pond.
8. Pies.
9. Cat stand.
10. Cake.

11. Carnival row.
The Home Economics class will have sandwiches and coffee. Different members of the P. T. A. will sell hamburgers and tell fortunes.

H.E. Club To Have Booth

Wednesday evening at 3:45 a special meeting of the Home Economics Club was called for the purpose of discussing the booth that the H. E. Club intends to have at the Hallowe'en Carnival given by the P. T. A. on October 30. A committee was appointed to decide what refreshments would be sold at this booth. Evelyn Ruth Dawson, Lonita Speece, Eloise Kollman, and Anna Laura Renken compose the refreshment committee. This committee will designate what each member of the club will bring for this booth.

Francis Ruth Fly was nominated to call Mrs. Pope, president of the P. T. A. to appoint a room mother for the H. E. Room and report the results to the president of the club.

Mary Ann Noonan, Francis Ellen Woolls, Laura Lee Lienweber, LaVern Ulbrich, Elizabeth Reynolds, and Francis Ruth Fly were the girls appointed to serve on the decoration committee for the purpose of decorating the booth for the Carnival.

Since the dates set for the regular meetings of the H. E. Club clash with the regular meetings of the P. T. A. plans were made to change the meetings. The club voted to have the meetings every first and third Monday of the following months until after football season is over and then the meetings will be held every first and third Wednesday of the month.

PAGEANT PRESENTED IN PEARSALL.

On a stage of Aztec setting, Miss Doris Windrow, an ex-graduate of Hondo High School, was crowned queen of the 1937 Winter Garden Fair, in the pageant presented last Thursday night at the Pearsall fair grounds.

The duchesses and the princess with their escorts entered first and were followed by the queen. After she was seated on her throne, members of the out-of-town courts entered and paid homage to the queen.

Mr. Murray Stephenson of Cotulla crowned the queen and this ceremony was followed by a dance given by several young girls of Pearsall and a toe dance by Miss Maggard of San Antonio. Music was furnished throughout the evening by the Ambassadors.

OWL LETTERMAN STARTS PRACTICE.

Bonnard Rothe, who has been out the whole season this far as a result of burns received during the summer, started light football practice last Monday and, it is hoped, may be in shape in time for the game with the Cotulla Cowboys. Bonnard can not do any hard practicing yet, but by running, passing and kicking the ball he will be in pretty fair shape by the time he gets the doctor's O. K.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH.

A class of thirteen has completed the course of instruction preparatory to becoming intelligent communicant members of the Lutheran Church. It marks a happy moment in the lives of these young people. It is equally one of serious and solemn importance. Christ says "He that confess-eth Me before men, him will I also confess before My Father which is in heaven." Coming out on God's side, standing in public confession for faith in the true God, in Jesus Christ as the only Savior from sin, in the eternal truth of God's Word and Sacraments—this is God-pleasing and is a challenge to others and to the confessor. But it is not something for the moment. It is for life.
It means a struggle, a fight, a race—it means a becoming more and more under the guidance of the Spirit under what God would have us be, and what we profess to believe. May God have mercy on these souls and save them for His Kingdom.

The members of the class are:
Jack Fuos, Walter Haas, Clinton
Hartung, Mary Lena Karm, Preston
Moebius, Lorine, Neumann, Paul Oefinger, Victor Saathoff, Annie
Schmidt, Ethel Mae Schuehle,
Gladys Schwarting, Mimmie Doyle
Schweers, and Darlene Wendland.

This class will dedicate the new robes which are a gift of the Ladies' Aid Society to the Church, and which will be worn by all succeeding classes.
They will help to lend dignity and impressiveness to the occasion.

The service will begin at 10 A. M. and the confirmation rites will be preceded by an examination of the class. You and your friends are invited.

On Sunday, Oct. 31, at 10:00 A.
M. English service with Holy Communion. This date marks the 420th anniversary of the Reformation, for it was on Oct. 31, 1517, when Dr.
Martin Luther started the movement which ushered in the modern era.
Every loyal Lutheran owes it to his church to be in his place, on this day especially.

Hondo High School pupils have acquired the habit of making good wherever they go.

Ed W. Tschirhart was here Tuesday from Riomedina with a load of seed oats which he sold at a good price. Mr. Tschirhart is offering elsewhere in this paper more of the same kind for sale. At the Community Fair last Sunday at LaCoste he took third prize on his oats in competition with about a dozen other large quantities. Mr. Tschirhart was also successful with his corn exhibit, taking the blue ribbon for 100 per cent white corn. Mr. Tschirhart's community is distinguished for producing high quality and pure seed grains of various kinds.

H. H. Crow, Secretary and Treasurer of the Home Relief Association of Medina County, is making a special effort and offering liberal financial inducements for securing new members to the Association. The M. E. may not be able to think straight, but we cannot think of any reason why any one who has any earning capacity at all must wait to be sold on this proposition. Even if your estate would have no need of the $1000.00 the Association pays the beneficiary of a member when he dies, if you were asked to give a dollar to bury the humblest human being you would hand it over. Well, that's what you are doing when you pay your dollar assessment—just helping put away a departed fellow-being. The Home Relief Association should have 100 per cent membership among Medina County earners.

STEINLE-KAINER.

The marriage of Miss Martha Kainer, youngest daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Frank Kainer of Schu-lenburg, and Joe Wurzbach Steinle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Steinle of Dunlay, was solemnized Monday, October 18, 1937, at 8:30 A. M., in the Saint Mary's Church of High Hill, with Monsignor Gerlach performing the impressive double ring ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated in white and gold cosmos.

The bridal party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Mr. Leo Kainer, cousin of the bride.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white satin made with a tight fitting jacket. A coronet of orange buds formed the headdress from which extended a veil of tulle, bordered in lace, and which flowed gracefully into a long train. She carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses, and lilies of the valley.

Her only attendant, Miss Adella Kainer, was gowned in blue, with accessories to match. Her bouquet was of pink and white carnations.

The groom was attended by his only brother, Carl H. Steinle.

Following the wedding a dinner was served in the home of the bride's parents. The wedding cake was a beautiful confection, representing a flower garden, the top forming an arch of sweetheart roses from which suspended a wedding bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Steinle left later in the evening for a short bridal trip, after which they will reside on the C. T. Wurzbach ranch.

George Elam and family, worthy colored people residing out on the creek, lost their home and all its contents in a fire Wednesday after-report a magnificent crop of citrus fruits just now maturing in the valley and the growers elated over the many relatives among the descendants of that worthy pioneer family in Medina County who will join the Anvil Herald in wishing the lovely young bride a full measure of mar-

and F. H. Schweers.

Mr. Adolph Huffmeyer of San Antonio, Medina County pioneer old trail driver, visited Mr. and Mrs. Henry Merriman Wednesday and Thursday. Mr. Huffmeyer was ac-

LITTLE HOUSES BY THE ROAD.

Little houses by the road,
Basking in the summer sun,
Children coming home from school,
When their work is done.
Father, mother, watching there,
Lovelight in their eyes—
Roses blooming, fragrant, sweet,
Crowned by butterflies.

As we glide o're hill and dale,
Over field and stream—
Sunshine all along our way,
O'er our pathways gleam.
Palaces in grandeur rise—
Great and small abode,
But the dearest of them all,
Little houses by the road.

Little houses by the road,
Bulwark of the state,
Living there beside the road,
Are a people great!
Homely, simple lives they lead,
Bearing many a load,
Hidden there beneath the trees,
Little houses by the road.

—MRS. J. G. NOEL, Atascosa.

IF THERE BE NOT GOD.

Tell me, if there be not God,
From whence came Love?
Tell me, if there be not Hell
From whence came Hate?
If life be but a fitful dream,
A senseless, meaningless something,
From out an empty void,
From whence came Truth?
Tell me, if Death be all,
And there be not God,
From whence came man's ideal
Of Peace and Eternal Glory?

—RALPH MUNROE PARK, Hillsboro.

PROMISE.

There will be wind and the cold stars shining
Over the hillside darkened with graves—
A field where fate, serenely sitting,
A story of men, slowly engraves.

We shall lie down with these the waiting
And follow the hand as it writes;
We shall find beauty far in the SIXTH GRADE.

Our Social Studies Class has replaced the Indian display with a mission display. We made the missions of soap, clay, and salt maps. We also made maps showing the location of the missions.

Friday we had our Language Arts Club. We told jokes, asked riddles and played one game.

Margaret Woolls, Franklyn Bless, William Horace Holloway and Bobby Van Fleet saw the football game Friday.

Vernice Taylor went dove hunting over the week-end.

Dorothy Lee Hoeke spent Saturday in the country with Mr. and Mrs. George Koch and their daughter.

SCIENCE MEMBERS INITIATED.

Thursday night at seven-thirty the new members of the Science Club were brought into the club. Before the initiation started there was a short business meeting held in the Science room. The dues were collected and minutes were read.

The new members were initiated then. After half killing them they were taken to the H. E. department and served cheese and tuna sandwiches, potato chips, pickles and hot chocolate.

The new members are Ima Jean Crow, Herbert Bulgerin, Sue Muennink, Evelyn Ruth Dawson, Lee Del Williams, Pan Thompson, Bobby Cameron, Frances Van Fleet, Lonnie Jo Walters, Frances Ellen Woolls.

Barbecue Enjoyed by Students

Both the pep squad and football team were well represented at the barbecue given in their honor by Mr. Alfred Bader last Saturday night. Following the barbecue there was a short dance.

Mr. Bader was helped in preparing and serving the food by Mrs. Robert Bendele, Clyde Holloway, J. D. Dawson, Arthur Ney, R. W. Speece, and Pete Beal. The Pep Squad prepared the potato salad.

COURAGE.

She lives within a lowly place; her pain
For all the sordidness akin to life,
Because she is an humble farmer's wife
Denied the heights, her spirit would attain—
Her hands must nurse the sick to health again,
And she must hush the angry words of strife
That mark where trace of error's chain is rife
Yet naught of sin does taint her soul, nor stain.

While others may their silken garments fold
With hands of velvet-smoothness and of grace,
Hoping they may the sting of pain erase
By aid of treasured legacies of gold—
Instead, the farmer's wife takes up a song strong.

OUR PUZZLE CORNER

LITTLE BUDDY

By Bruce Stuart

On Tiptoe

By Stewart Edward White

She scorned reply, but began at once to scramble up over the rough and jagged talus. Davenport watched the rise of her light and graceful figure for a moment, then followed.

The top of the rock was perfectly flat, but at two elevations, one two feet higher than the other. It was carpeted deep with moss.

"Hop down," advised Larry, himself descending to the lower of the two elevations. "Now sit down and lean your back. Can you beat this?"

The natural seat thus formed and cushioned commanded to the right a view up the stream which at this point ran straight and wide for some distance. Directly ahead was the slope of the ridge, elusively sensed through the screen of underbrush which here the slant of the ground caused to rise. To the left the view was open, above the brush, and down through the spaced and tremendous distances between the redwood trunks. A cool air breathed down the stream, diluting the speed, aromatic sun-warmth of the forest. Sunlight played unweariedly dancing. Birds flitted and midges hovered in the sun.

"I want to know more about this gift of yours," demanded Burton after a time. "You said, didn't you, that you thought everybody ought to have it?"

"Yes, I do believe it belongs normally in the race."

"Could I do it—with practice?"

"I'm certain of it."

"Why?"

"Well, you're young, and you haven't been much spoiled yet by your kind of life."

"What do you mean by that?" she demanded, a little hotly.

"Very rotten influence, your kind of life, after a certain age, on the average," said Davenport without heed to her tone. "Doesn't do much harm while you're in the A B C's of life, except that it's likely to be bad preparation for the D E F's. But no immediate harm."

"Thank you," she said dryly. "I'm young and unspoiled—probably good-hearted! Anything else? That hardly seems like adequate reason."

He turned to her with his disarmingly boyish smile.

"No. You're right. That isn't much of a reason, except after the fact. The truth is I know you can do this the same way I knew the tree was going to fall or what the ants were going to do."

"Oh!" she cried, her resentment lost in eagerness. "I want to try! How do you start?"

He smiled.

"This is no conjuring trick to be learned; it's a good healthy faculty to be developed. You've got to relax utterly; and then, when you're all relaxed so not a muscle is tensed anywhere in your body, you've got to relax something inside of you that you hold tight together for everyday life—something in your consciousness. Then things just float in and you have them alone for future reference. If you start to think of them or examine them or appraise them at the time, then your inner relaxation is spoiled and you don't get anything there. Is that sufficiently vague for you?"

"I get a kind of idea," she said slowly.

"You've got to grope until you feel it once," he warned.

"I'm going to begin now," she announced.

He leaned back in a comfortable position to watch her. She had laid aside her hat, and the cool air current was stirring the hair at her temples. Little by little her form fell into the simple, restful curves of relaxation; one by one even the smaller muscles relinquished their guard. Her face took on the dreamy and far-away peacefulness of a sleeping child's. Then her eyes became remote, and she sat there in the altar rock in the ancient forest gazing into infinities.

Davenport watched her at first keenly, then with satisfaction, and then, as his eyes continued to rest on her wistful and childlike countenance a great tenderness and longing crept from beneath his customary repression and looked forth at her unashamed.

Thus fifteen minutes passed. Then she stirred slightly, and the ordinary animation of life flowed slowly back into her attitude and expression.

"Well?" asked Davenport at last.

"What seemed to happen?"

"Why, nothing. That's the curious part. I didn't go to sleep or anything. Let's see: I didn't seem to be all there. One part of me wasn't there; the everyday part."

"That's what I mean by setting your work-a-day mind aside," he explained.

"Yes, I gather that. But somehow the atmosphere seemed different—I mean the air that is all around and through me. Oh, dear! I don't know what I mean!"

"What about the air?"

"I don't know, but somehow it seemed alive. It was like the difference between still water and boiling water."

"You've got it," he cried, "or at least a start at it. I think it's wonderful to get all that the first trial! It ought to take years!"

"It scared me a little," she confessed. "I didn't know it was going to be so—so active. I thought you'd just go blank in the mind and thoughts would drift in."

"Why shouldn't it be active?" he pointed out. "The whole universe is active."

"It scared me a little just the same," she repeated. "Are you sure I won't go in a trance or something if I do that?"

"Well, I'm a pretty healthy specimen," said Larry. "My own belief is that it's as normal a process as when you focus your mind to add up your accounts."

He hesitated, and the sunburn on his cheeks seemed to deepen a little.

"Did—did you get any—well, thoughts?" he inquired.

She looked straight ahead, and her color, too, deepened.

"Nothing—nothing particular," she replied steadily enough. "I really couldn't expect much of anything the first trial, could I?"

"Are we going to waste time?" he asked gently.

She did not reply. After waiting a moment he reached out and took her hand. She half withdrew it; then abandoned it to him.

"You did see," he insisted. "You saw what I saw yesterday when we were in the old orchard, what I saw felt from the very first instant I saw you standing in the firelight, beautiful as the night."

She struggled painfully.

"I don't know what to tell you," she cried in desperation at last. "Somehow I cannot help but be honest."

"It would be no use otherwise; I know," he told her. "I'll tell you what I saw. Part of it I knew already; that I loved you, that the very air you breathed was by that made radiant to me, that where you stood was light and all other places darkness. But I saw also that we were mates. Those things run deeper than our fancies, deeper than even the infatuation that may last through a whole lifetime. I saw that, and I know it is eternally true."

She turned on him troubled eyes.

"I don't know why I talk and act this way. It seems almost shameful. I do not understand it. But somehow I cannot hide and dodge and retreat and flirt as I— It is impossible. I do not know what it is that has come to me, Larry, and you must wait until I find out. I have been made love to before and— From the first I have been attracted to you. Just now when I tried to set my mind aside, as you call it, just one idea, one impression, came to me, and that was of nearness to you—I don't mean physical nearness—I don't know what I mean or what I'm talking about."

"I do," he assured her.

"I am shaken, and I don't know; I can't tell what it means."

"It is the answer to my love for you!" he breathed.

She turned her clear eyes on him again.

"I do not know," she repeated, "and I must know. I might allow you to keep my hand and to—and to go on, and there is something leaping within me that tells me I would be swept away by your love. But I must not; and you must not. If it were not so serious to me, that might happen. I am talking in what my mother would have called a most unmaidenly manner," she ended with a wistful little smile.

He gently restored her hand to her lap.

"I understand," said he. "But it will come. I am on air! It can no more help coming than the poppy can help unfolding in the sun."

"I hope not," she breathed, but so low that he did not catch the syllables.

At this moment, just when some obvious change of subject seemed most desirable, Grimstead appeared wading down the middle of the stream.

"Keep quiet!" Burton adjured Larry. "Let's surprise him!"

The fisherman was having a fine time, splashing down the long, straight vista, casting his fly right, left and straight ahead as he advanced. The pool behind the cedar root yielded a rise that immediately developed into an indignant rainbow struggling to involve himself in underwater roots. For a time Grimstead managed to foil this intention, but a sharp and unexpected dash trailed the dropper fly across a part of the snag, where it became firmly embedded. After that Mr. Rainbow proceeded to pull him self loose and depart. Grimstead, rather red in the face, tried to disengage the dropper hook without getting near the pool, flipping the line, pulling it down stream, poking the tip past it—all the angler's tricks known—but in vain. At last he had to wade out to the snag, roll up his sleeve, and plunge his arm nearly to the shoulder before once more his leader swung clear. The pool, and it was a promising one, was of course completely ruined.

"You'd be surprised at dad's language," chuckled Burton.

"He hasn't said a word," exposed tutulated Larry. "He's a good old sport."

"Just the same there's language. I know dad," whispered Burton. "He just hasn't used it yet, that's all. This is not a propitious moment to spring any surprises. In a minute he'll pull out a cigar and bite it in two. I know the symptoms. There! What did I tell you! Now when he's got that about half smoked he'll be human again. Hush! Keep quiet!"

Grimstead, after lighting the mangled fragment of the cigar, had waded ashore opposite the flat rock atop which the two were perched. There he sat, concealed from view. Only the curling smoke and the aroma of the excellent tobacco betrayed his presence.

Davenport felt his arm seized tightly. Burton, her eyes dancing with fun, was pointing an ecstatic forefinger up stream. In the vista Gardiner had appeared and was making his way as fast as a reluctance to get it over his top boots would let him.

SHOULD TAKE HIS HOBBLES OFF.

A twostate agricultural meeting called to discuss recommendations to make to the special session of Congress in regard to farm legislation will be held in Dallas, October 25, at 7 P. M. in the Jefferson Hotel. Farmers and businessmen interested in farming and allied industries are invited to attend the meeting and join in the discussion. C. W. Weston, county supervisor, Farm Security Administration, said today.

C. M. Evans, general chairman of this Texas-Oklahoma farm security dinner, said today that he had received assurance that practically all of the congressional delegates from both states would be present. Evans said the dinner will give opportunity for discussing recommendations to make to a senate sub-committee which will hold a meeting in Dallas the following day. This sub-committee is headed by Senator Elmer Thomas.

The object of the meeting is to lay the foundation for general farm legislation which is to be considered during this special session of Congress, and any person interested is invited to attend the dinner. Those who are unable to attend are invited to send their suggestions to the Dallas Agricultural Club, or to C. M. Evans, regional director, Farm Security Administration, Dallas.

Mr. Evans said he is "especially anxious to have farmers from every county send their suggestions", and they will be passed on to the sub-committee for further study.

MY LIFE'S ONE AIM.

Oh yes, my life has one great aim, It's not for wealth and not for fame, But just to do some good each day, And help some one along the way.

I do not crave a mansion great, A cottage small was mine by fate, I want to live and be content, That when my life is fully spent

That I will find my treasure trove Where all is light and all is love, Oh yes, my life has one great aim— It is to live for Jesus' name.

ate. If Allred clings stubbornly to his determination not to permit reduction of government expense, it seems a good bet that the senate will not levy a dime of new taxes. If Allred surrenders, the senate may give him some tax increase.

GYPSY PLEA.

I am a Gypsy dreamer
With a dreamer's name,
Singing a Gypsy dream song
Since you came.

I own a Gypsy dream camp
With the stars shining through
I lie me close in its fold
And dream of you.

But Gypsy dreams come true
Gypsy love must have its way,
Bid, fair maid, for my heart,
Lest it go astray.

—Mrs. Mary Hickman,
Austin, Texas.

LOVERS.

Two shall meet, together Learning love for the while.
In the hour that is day
Paying the price in lovers' thrills.

But one shall be called away
To answer, where the light
Shall beckon on to follow,
Leaving the other alone with the night.

—Mrs. Mray Hickman,
Austin, Texas.

WHEELER-WOOLSEY IN AGAIN.

"On Again—Off Again", geared to a high nonsensical pitch, features the veteran comedy team, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, and shows at the Colonial Theatre Monday and Tuesday. The plot revolves around the two as antagonistic partners in a pill factory. To stop their feuding, they engage in a wrestling match, the loser to serve as the winner's valet for a period of one year. Wheeler loses, but wins in the end.
